Local Breweries Win Big!

Livingston came out strong on February 24th in Helena for the Inaugural 2024 Montana Beer Awards! The Montana Brewers Association has awarded two local breweries in the recent competition, which was done through blind judging. Livingston's Neptune's Brewery won the bronze medal in Amber Ales for their Anchor's Away California Common. Even better still, Neptune's received a gold medal in the same category for their Dan Bailey's Irish Red. They were also bestowed with the honor of Medium Sized Brewery of the Year!

Neptune's owner, Jon Berens says, "We're proud and thankful to be a part of such a thriving brewing community. Last weekend, a lot of awesome breweries showed up and submitted fantastic beers, really showcasing the quality of beer in our state. We are so lucky to have Cody Phillips as our head brewer. He has been instrumental in us becoming a well-respected and decorated brewery."

Katabatic Brewing also came out strong and took home a gold medal for their Scotch Ale. Owner Shawn Markman said, "Their Scotch Ale, Jon Berens, owner of Neptune's Brewery, Cody Phillips, head brewer for Neptune's, Shawn Markman and Dawn Markman owners of Katabatic Brewery.

a Montana signature ale, has won numerous other awards recently. Congratulations to Ben Ward, our head brewer. It's really great that the two Livingston breweries were recognized at the event. I'm really happy and proud for Neptune's as well."

Obituaries

Paul Patrick Mikesell (Pat)

On March 1, 2024, Paul Patrick Mikesell (Pat) of Livingston, Montana passed away peacefully in his home with his wife Peggy by his side.

A lifetime resident of Livingston, Pat was born on January 30, 1947 and graduated from Park High School in 1966. As a student at Montana State University, he competed on the shooting team, later being recognized for his achievements by being inducted into the MSU Hall of Fame.

In 1969, Pat put his degree in Architecture on hold to enlist in the Navy, stationed in Pearl Harbor as a munitions specialist. It wasn't soon after his time in the military that he met and married the love of his life, Peggy. They were married in 1975 and welcomed their daughter, Anjie in 1983.

He was employed at Brand S/Ry Timber for over 40 years. He loved his work and the people that he worked with, making many lifelong friends during his career. As an avid craftsman and woodworker, Pat could regularly be found in his workshop, making beautiful furniture and artwork for his friends and family. He enjoyed bowling, camping, four-wheeling and all of Montana's outdoors. His true calling was being a loving father to his daughter, husband to his wife and devoted friend to many.

Community was important to Pat and he spent many years focused on giving back. He served on the Livingston City Council and as the city's Mayor for several years. He also sat on the board of directors for the Sister City Exchange Program linking Livingston, Montana with Naganohara, Japan.

Pat did not know any strangers. His eyes would squint with a big moustache'd smile whenever he met someone new. His laugh was contagious and always left a lasting impression. His family is saddened by the loss but grateful that he could share his joy and love with the entire community.

Pat is survived by his loving wife

Peggy Mikesell (Mussetter), daughter Anjie Martins (Mikesell), son-in-law Mike Martins and his brother Mike Mikesell and wife Carol. He is also survived by many other close friends and extended family who experienced his unbounded love and kindness.

He was preceded in death by his father Earle Mikesell, mother Florence Mikesell (Cast), father-in-law Chester Mussetter and mother-in-law Betty Mussetter (Bell).

Today, we lost a great man. Pat's legacy will continue to impact our community through those that were blessed enough to know him.

Please join us for a memorial service celebrating and remembering Pat on March 8th at 1:00 p.m. at Holbrook United Methodist Church. A graveside service will follow at Mountain View Cemetery with full military honors. A reception will immediately follow back at the church.

In lieu of flowers, memorial contributions may be made to Treasure Lanes Bowling Alley, 1122 W. Front St., Livingston, MT 59047. Checks may be made payable to Livingston USBC Scholarship as a fund will be named in Pat Mikesell's honor.

Community School Collaborative Inspires Learning Through February Pop-Up Clubs

Community School Collaborative continues its commitment to hands-on, experiential learning with the successful hosting of two engaging popup clubs in February. These clubs provided students with unique opportunities to explore the worlds of Culinary Arts and Physical Therapy, fostering creativity and curiosity.

The first pop-up club, "Sweet Treats at the Livingston Community Bakery," was a delightful experience for participating students. Under the guidance of skilled instructors, students immersed themselves in the culinary arts by dipping truffles in chocolate. The session extended to the art of frosting and decorating Valentine's Day cookies, adding a festive touch to their culinary journey. What made this experience even more special was the community-oriented aspect of students enjoyed delivering their handcrafted cookies to their "Senior Sweethearts" at the Park County Senior Center. This not only allowed students to share their newfound skills but also brought joy to the senior community. Additionally, > each student had the opportunity to take some of their creations home, creating lasting memories for both students and their

The second pop-up club, led by Granite Sports Medicine and Black Dog Rehab, offered students a glimpse into the fascinating world of a medical provider. As physical therapists for both humans and dogs, leaders provided valuable insights into the profession. The session was interactive, allowing students to actively participate in the learning process. From the detective work of diagnosing problems to understanding treatment methods and the importance of maintaining health and strength, students gained a comprehensive understanding of the medical field. The engaging and dynamic nature of the session ensured that students were not just passive observers but active learners, ready to move and absorb the knowledge shared.

Community School Collaborative remains dedicated to providing innovative educational experiences that go beyond traditional classroom learning. These pop-up clubs exemplify the organization's commitment to inspiring curiosity, fostering creativity, and connecting students with realworld experiences.

STOP! Breathe

By Monica El Amari

I am thrilled to see that this free little booklet is being picked up at the various locations around town. A shout out to Foodworks for their generous donation to print the second batch of 200 booklets---which I've already distributed to more locations, restocked previous places, and ran out of them within a couple hours!

Presently, you can find these booklets at: Coffee Crossing, The Perk on Park, Tru North Cafe, Fireflies, Rx Coffee, Wheatgrass Books, Sacred Mystery Bookstore, The Main Print, Livingston Library, Foodworks on Park St, HRDC office, The Warming Center, and Bitterroot Records.

It is my goal to get these little books into the hands of our area youth and elementary aged children, and to keep the books in print and replenished regularly in many locations.

Because these booklets are free, it will take the village to keep them in supply. Eight

The booklet is a guided reminder for each of us to STOP! the busy doing and chatter in our heads and to take a moment

Many of us are feeling the mental, emotional, physical, and even spiritual unsettledness of this time of great change—and many of us are struggling to keep it together. Focused breathing is a secret tool you can use in the classroom, in your car, in a meeting, while you wait in line, when you feel scared, confused, frustrated, or when your mind is overstimulated.

When you feel powerless, for whatever reason, STOP! Breathe. Focused breathing is like a reset button. It stops the continuous thoughts in your mind, and it

Hero Joey Lewis and the journey of the soul

by Joyce Johnson

"You can run but ya can't hide," said african american Boxer, Joe Louis in the famous challenge put to his opponent to dare the rematch for Heavyweight World Champ, during World War II years. It has been re-quoted countless times over the decades: a dare, a comic chastisement, a war chant even.

Joseph Louis Barrow (May 13, 1914 - April 12, 1981) competed from 1934 to 1951. While he served in the army back in 1942, he was quoted to have said, "we will do our part and we are going to win because we are on God's side." Joey was widely regarded as one of the greatest and most influential boxers of all time. He was world heavyweight champion from 1937 until his temporary retirement in 1949. He won 25 consecutive title defenses, a record for all weight classes. Joey had the longest single reign as champion of any boxer in history. But his cultural impact was strong outside the ring too. He was the first African-American to achieve the status of a nationwide sports hero and was also a focal point of anti-Nazi sentiment leading up to and during World War Il because of the historic rematch with German boxer, Max Schmeling in 1938. Joey was later instrumental in promoting golf, helping break the sport's color barrier in America by competing, with sponsorship, in a Professional Golf event in 1951. Joey was a hero in American sports, and walked the talk of freedom to be who a hero for giving birth to those words of wisdom, alone, Joey "took the bull by the horns."

A champion doesn't become a champion in the ring, he's merely recognized in the ring. His "becoming" happens during his daily routine.

journey of the soul? This: I got that Joey was a brave conqueror on his journey. A good American too. For most of us, when someone or event causes fear, or spells trouble and challenge, like a charging griz; or a little less extreme, when people get assaulted by negative or hurtful criticism or mockery, called of old with reason. We duck, run, or fire back, or just stand our ground and smile at into those dumb rubber arrows.

Criticism or badmouthing others is destructive because it's not coming from our best place, in fact is a false self. Our knowledge of other people is almost always only partial. Assassination of character, often "just my opinion," is tangible energy that flies like an arrow toward it's target. (Collectively, it is pulling the world apart.) But, it has a brilliant built-in reaction or an auto-self cleaning feature, "what goes around, comes around," in other words, there is a lesson, and a pop quiz here in classroom Earth. If you get an F you repeat the lesson.

When things or people's actions stir up emotions in us and we let slip a resentful "put down" of them, we the accusers are often coming from our own stuff, like a wound, or being > pride fueled. A, sorta kneejerk slinging it upon others we resent. Because we are unable to see or own our glitches from unconscious fear of some inner truth or a wound exposed in us that we are blind to, our personal reality is challenged. This fear of loss of power is poked—EGO it's called. Hefty concept I know. Are you dear reader, thinking: "Wha? you tell'n me if I call someone a "butt" it's about my butt not theirs?" (Yup! Exactly. Bravo!) But you can count on it, friends and various coaches say, "Don't take things personally," which everyone does anyway. Human re-activeness is why many therapeutic practices use powerful daily meditation. A discipline that may take years to master, but, I know, it works right from the start to dispel fear, anger, and anxiety. Most of you know, meditation is a very old practice.

Dare to be honest with yourself, because if you can't forgive others, or yourself, that arrow you shot outward interestingly comes back at you, it settles in your own body somewhere—called dis-ease—nonforgiveness is just real bad for your health.

Catch it in the act! Eckhart Tolle teaches a great boot camp for ego-taming. He says that the DEpowering of ego starts with simply recognizing one's own ego when it escapes complaining, or ranting. It is not the real you, so when you see that fake self acting out, and fail to "toss a net" over the pest, you are giving your power to the creep. Try to remember that and say, "Ego bug off!" which causes a little shift in your consciousness, I promise. And makes you and others laugh. Take a deep breath, too, and dare to be silent, which sustains your power.

The Internationally renown Shaolin (as in Kung Fu) Master, Shi Heng Yi sits still in the forest, on YouTube, totally at peace in meditation and then says with serious eye contact right at you: "Do not let someone else's wounds disturb your personal strength of consciousness. (And after a pause, he sighed and said,)"...and we must try to love all life...but without challenge,... we will not grow." I fidgeted, frowned, jumped up and hurried to the cookie jar for distraction from reality, but I heard Joey chuckling and you know what he said.

HELENA, Mont. – Director Christy Clark and the Agriculture Development Council announced recipients of the state's $818,954 investment in innovative, value-added agriculture projects through the Montana Department of Agriculture's Growth Through Agriculture (GTA) program. From Plevna to Kalispell, a total of 22 agricultural businesses throughout the state were awarded funds to advance Montana's agricultural economy.

"Year after year, MDA's Growth Through Agriculture program focuses on giving our agricultural businesses the opportunity to grow and expand in order to add more value to their product and improve their bottom lines," Montana Director of Agriculture Christy Clark said. "The Department of Agriculture is proud to invest in these innovative projects that will add value to Montana agriculture as well as contribute to economic development and local communities."

The GTA program was established by the Montana Legislature in 1987 to strengthen and diversify Montana's agriculture industry through development of new agricultural products and processes. It offers funding in the form of a grant or loan or both and funding is determined by a seven member Agriculture Development Council (Council) during scheduled meetings. The Council members are appointed by the Governor. Growth Through Agriculture funding requires the investment of at least a $1 in matching funds for every $1 in program grant or loan assistance received.

Hunting & Fishing Licensing Year Begins March 1st

Happy new license year! March 1st is the day you can buy your 2024 hunting and fishing licenses and begin applying for permits and special licenses. The deadline to apply for deer and elk permits is April 1st, but don't wait until the last minute. It's a good idea to apply early.

Applications for most species — deer, elk, antelope, deer B licenses, elk B licenses, antelope B licenses, moose, sheep, goat, bison, bear, turkey — can be made beginning March 1st.

New for this year, Montana residents purchasing a general deer or elk license between March 1st and June 30th are automatically entered into a lottery for a free moose, sheep, or goat license (species determined by the Fish and Wildlife Commission).

Please note that General Deer Licenses and Deer B Licenses for antlerless mule deer in Regions 6 and 7 are valid only on private land.

You can buy licenses and apply for permits on the FWP website beginning at 5 am on March 1st; click on "Buy and Apply." Most FWP offices will be open from 8 am to 5 pm, Monday through Friday.

Once you have your licenses and permits, you can use the MyFWP mobile app to hold and display licenses, permits and E-Tags. Once you've downloaded these items, you will be able to access them in the field without cell service.

If you do not already have a MyFWP account, you can set one up through the MyFWP login page.

The licensing call center will be open from 7 am to 7 pm from March 1st through April 1st; after April 1st, the hours will return to 8 am to 5 pm The call center can be reached at 406-444-2950.

To watch a video on the permit application process, or for more information on Montana hunting licenses and permits, go to fwp. mt.gov/buyandapply/hunting-licenses.

325.5 Million Visits to National Parks in 2023, 4.5 Million Visits to Yellowstone National Park

NATIONAL

MAMMOTH HOT SPRINGS, WY – On Feb. 22, the National Park Service (NPS) announced that 400 national parks reported a total of 325.5 million recreation visits in 2023, an increase of 13 million or 4% over 2022.

Yellowstone National Park hosted 4,501,382 recreation visits in 2023, up 37% over 2022 (3,290,242 recreation visits). Lower visitation numbers in 2022 were likely due to an historic flood event that closed the park from June 13 through June 21. Three entrances opened June 22 and two remained closed until October.

In 2023, visitation was the second busiest on record. The busiest year was 2021 with 4,860,242 recreational visits. More than half of these visits for both years occurred in June July and August. Visitors looking to travel to Yellowstone in the summer st plan a visit well in advance.

Visitation figures and trends guide how the NPS manages parks to ensure the best experience possible for park visitors.

The Visitation Statistics shboard provides ational visit statistics for bark in the US for 2023 and every park in the US for 2023 and also for previous years, dating back to 1979 for some parks. There are 429 parks in the National Park System, and 400 parks counted visitors in 2023. For the first time, there are now parks reporting their visitation numbers from all 50 states, the District of Columbia, and four US territories. Five national parks began reporting in 2023, and this is the first year a park from Delaware is included.

Important changes to antierless mule deer hunting in eastern Montana

As you apply for licenses and permits for the 2024 hunting season, we'd like to point out some changes for mule deer B licenses and antlerless deer hunting in eastern Montana.

In December, the Montana Fish and Wildlife Commission passed regulations that restrict antlerless mule deer harvest to occur only on private land in FWP Regions 6 and 7, to include private lands enrolled in the Block Management Program.That means all mule deer B licenses in Regions 6 and 7 will be valid only on private land. This restriction also applies to those hunting districts in Regions 6 and 7 that allow antlerless mule deer harvest on a general license.

Also, in Region 7, the commission voted to split the region into north and south segments for antelope hunting. The dividing line will be the Yellowstone River. North of the river, licenses will be 007-21 (either-sex) and 007-31 (doe/fawn). South of the river, licenses will be 007-20 (either-sex) and 007-30 (doe/fawn). Archery only licenses will remain the same, 900-20.

Please be sure to check your hunting regulations if you have any questions.

Food Storage Requirements Reinstated March 1, 2024

Bozeman, MT, February 27, 2024 -Effective March 1, 2024, food storage regulations will be reinstated annually from March 1- December 1, 2024, across five ranger districts within the Custer Gallatin National Forest: Bozeman, Hebgen Lake, Gardiner, Yellowstone, and Beartooth. These measures aim to reduce potential adverse human/wildlife interactions including bear and other wildlife species. The food storage order requires that all attractants, which include food and beverages, refuse, animal carcasses, and items that have food smells or other odors (toiletries, cosmetics, pet food, coolers, bird feeders, etc.), be attended or stored using an approved method.

The Food Storage Order requires that all unattended food, garbage and attractants be stored through one of the approved methods:

- In hard-sided vehicles or enclosed trailers;
 - In bear-resistant containers or other approved products. A list of approved bear-resistant storage products can be found at www.igbconline.org; or

• Suspended at least 10 feet above the ground, and 4 feet away from adjacent trees/poles, out of the reach of wildlife;

Individuals who do not comply with the food storage order can be issued a violation and held civilly liable for any damages that occur from non-compliance. It is always good practice to maintain a clean camp and keep food properly stored in containers out of the reach of wildlife and secured for both the safety of bears, other wildlife and for human safety.

For further information on bear safety and food storage protocols, please visit Custer Gallatin National Forest - Outdoor Safety & Ethics (usda.gov). Additional information on IGBC-approved products including containers and electric fencing please visit www.igbconline.org.

2024 Community Art Show Livingston Center for Art and Culture

The Livingston Center for Art and Culture will celebrate the artistic talents of Park County residents with this year's annual Community Art Show. Featured will be the artwork of dozens of residents, from seasoned artists to budding creative novices, and include painters, sculptors, photographers, jewelry makers, fabric weavers, artisans, and more. Elle Skinner, a participating artist from Livingston shared, "The community show is a chance to connect with my town. I remember the first community show I submitted a snail painting that resonated with another artist. This other artist was a school aged boy who had drawings of cockroaches on display - which I loved in return. Seeing what other people create offers insight into the kindred potential of others that isn't always easy to see. The community show features folks of all ages and dispositions. Having that on display speaks to the richness of the community and the fact that all of us can be artists in our own unique way." The Community Art Show will be on display between March 5th through March 30th, 2024. The public will have the opportunity to meet participating artists at a reception on March 22nd from 6 to 8 pm. The Center is located at 119 South Main Street in historic downtown Livingston.

To learn more contact the Center at (406) 222-5222 or visit http://www. livingstoncenter.org. Visit the Center and see what your community has been up to artistically this year.

The Gladiators Return to The Mats

Reed Konely, Tavin Grant, Logan Marsh, Cooper Jett, Gavin Chandler, Whinter Gibson, Griffin King, and Mason Hartman grapple to First Place for Livingston

Park County Dugout | Livingston By: Jeff Schlapp

Park High School in Livingston was jam-packed as 377 Little Guy wrestlers from eight wrestling clubs took to the mats. This was the last tune-up with divisionals next weekend before the stakes get high. The Livingston Little Guy Invitational brought teams from Big Timber, Bozeman, Gallatin Gateway, Helena Bearcats Wrestling Club, Manhattan, Three Forks, Townsend, and Livingston.

The Livingston wrestlers have been on the mats since February 12th, with two tournaments under their belt before Saturday. Both were away in Townsend, and Saturday was their only home meet of the season. Next weekend, March 9th, is Divisional at Three Forks High School. March 16th is the state championships in Manhattan at Manhattan High School.

The stars came out to watch and referee as Ranger Wrestling alumni Trae DeSaveur and Gage McGillvray and All-state wrestlers came out to referee, and this year's state qualifiers, Charlie Seeman, Karlie Payne, and

Tucker Shepardson also threw on a whistle to referee and give back to the wrestling community. Ben Hahn and Matt Dettori were on hand to watch, as was Livingston wrestling royalty, Jessica Gubler, who was home for spring break.

What they saw was that the future of Park High wrestling was in good hands. Ranger and Livingston Little Guy head coach Lintton Jett had to be pleased as eight Livingston wrestlers grappled to first place.

Reed Konely won by fall over Taylor Bleile (Townsend) in 1:43 to win first in 56A. Tavin Grant took home first place in 59B by decision over William Kirchner (Big Timber) 9-2. Logan Marsh pinned Mason Hardaway (Manhattan) in a quick 0:45 seconds to claim first place in the 75 weight class. Cooper Jett won his two matches and first place by a pin over Westin Jones (Big Timber).

Gavin Chandler won the 110 Novice class when he pinned Joseph Stewart (Manhattan) in 0:49 seconds. Whinter Gibson had quite a day. She won all three matches by pin on her way to wining the girls 70 Novice weight class.

Griffin King twice pinned Bryson Lammle of Bozeman to win the 153-pound weight class. And Mason Hartman pinned Stetson Hartman after pinning Amos Stanley (Manhattan). Mason beat pinned Stanley in 0:50 and returned and beat Hartman in just 0:42.

While Charlotte Counts, Linton Jett, Murphy Sullivan, Luke Ervin, Chelsea Petz, Adilynn Matson, Abrielle Ricci, Ben Meznarich, and Hunter Horsley took second place.

Last year at Divisionals, the Livingston wrestlers qualified a record 42 wrestlers for the Little Guy State Tournament. It will take some work to duplicate that effort, but don't be shocked when it happens!

Spice Up your Life with Cayenne Pepper

by Jill-Ann Ouellette

Want to add a little spice to your life—and your diet? Cayenne pepper may be just what the doctor ordered. This popular red pepper adds versatile flavor to your meals and is chock-full of health benefits. "Cayenne peppers are a great addition to a healthy diet," says registered dietitian

Alexis Supan from the Cleveland Clinic Health.

Cayenne peppers are rich in vitamin C, vitamin A, vitamin B6, and vitamin K. One fresh pepper is packed with 72% of the recommended daily amount of vitamin C and 50% of vitamin A. Powdered cayenne doesn't contain as many vitamins as the fresh peppers do. Yet, dried cayenne powder is a good source of vitamin A, more like 15% in one teaspoon. And vitamin A is an essential nutrient that plays an important role in vision, reproduction, immune system health, and proper function of the heart, lungs, kidneys and other organs.

The hidden gem in cayenne's great health benefits comes from the photochemical capsaicin, the natural compound that gives all peppers their spicy kick. Let us count the good things that cayenne can do:

1. Provides Beneficial Plant Compounds

Cayenne peppers are winning sources of antioxidants, flavonoids, and carotenoids. These antioxidants protect our cells and promote good health. They protect against cell damage from harmful substances in their environment.

2. Protects your leart

Studies that suggest capsaicin can protect against inflammation and alter bacterial growth in vitro. Inflammation plays a role in many diseases, including heart disease. Cayenne peppers can keep blood vessels healthy and lower blood pressure.

According to the Cleveland study, people who regularly ate chili peppers were 13% less likely to die from heart-related diseases like heart attacks and strokes. Researchers found that when people season their meals with cayenne pepper, they're less likely to reach for the salt shaker.

3. Improves Digestion

Many people think spicy foods cause heartburn or an upset stomach, and it can trigger heartburn in some people. Yet, in reality, cayenne increases gastric juices and enzyme production in the stomach, which improves the breakdown of food. It will also promote detoxification by improving liver function. If cayenne pepper doesn't agree with you, don't force it.

4. Maintains a Healthy Weight

Cayenne peppers and other capsaicincontaining spicy foods may help with weight loss. Spicy foods can boost your metabolism, helping you to burn calories. It can also help you feel fuller after eating. A spicy, flavorful diet tends to be more satisfying. While not effective as a standalone weight-loss plan, it should be part of a nutritious eating plan. And when you're satisfied, you're less likely to reach for notso-healthy foods, desserts, and snacks.

5. Eases Pain and Clear Congestion

When you're congested, spicy foods can help clear you up. And if your head is pounding, spicy chili or tacos might be a good go-to. Cayenne peppers specifically have also been shown to help relieve headaches.

To ease pain, capsaicin is also used in topical form. Creams made from this potent spice can be rubbed on your skin to treat aches and pains, even arthritis.

It's easy to include cayenne daily. Fresh or powdered, cayenne pepper is a super addition to your diet. It blends with every type of cuisine and is used in dishes from around the world. Go ahead—grab a pinch and get creative, sprinkle a bit of the powdered spice on just about any food. How about a Mexican hot chocolate, a boost in your coffee? Chop them up, sauté them, add them to a stir fry, or go brave with raw peppers—raw, fresh cayenne peppers pack the most punch.

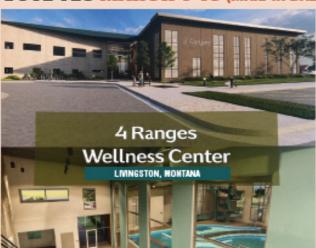

A word of warning—as your palate and your digestion adjust to cayenne peppers, you might find you like your foods hotter and hotter. But with all the potential health benefits of a spicy diet, that's all good!

Monthly Vegan Potluck Is Back!

The comeback of the much-loved vegan potluck is happening! Please join them for the revamped potluck on the second Sunday of every month, starting on March 10th at 4:30 pm, at the Park County Senior Center at 206 South Main Street, in Livingston.

You don't have to be vegan but the food does! Bring a 100% plant-based dish to share that is free from meat, dairy, eggs, honey and gelatin. It can be simple, like salsa and chips, salads, pickles, olives, cut veggies, or fruit or a beverage. It can be a main course casserole or side dish—whatever you'd like to bring. Or offer everyone's favorite—a vegan dessert!

There will be a vegan books and DVDs from the lending library, great healthy food, and always great company. The April potluck will include live music with Cue the Muse. To bring back an old tradition, they plan to have food demonstrations in the future as well

Please bring your own plate and utensils—as they don't have access to the center's kitchen for washing dishes and want to reduce the waste footprint. They will provide coffee, hot tea, ice water and napkins.

A cowboy, who just moved to Montana from Texas, walks into a bar and orders three mugs of Bud.

He sits in the back of the room, drinking a sip out of each one in turn. When he finishes when he finishes them, he comes back to the bar and orders three more. The bartender approaches and tells the cowboy

"You know, a mug goes flat after I draw it.

It would taste better if you bought one at a time."

The cowboy replies, "Well, you see, I have two brothers.

One is in Arizona, the other is in Colorado.

when we all left our home in Texas, we promised that we'd drink this way to remember the days when we drank together

So I'm drinking one beer for each of my brothers and one for myself."

The bartender admits that this is a nice custom, and leaves it there.

The cowboy becomes a regular in the bar, and always drinks the same way. He orders three mugs and drinks them in turn. One day, he comes in and only orders two mugs.

All the regulars take notice and fall silent, when he comes back to the bar for the second round, the bartender says, "I don't want to intrude on your grief, but I wanted to offer my condolences on your

Ioss."
The cowboy looks quite puzzled for a moment, then a light dawns in his eyes and he laughs.

'Oh, no, everybody's just fine,'' he explains.

"....I quit drinking."
